

Learn More about Antithrombin & VTE Risk at Upcoming Expert Presentations

Grifols is pleased to offer a one-hour live webinar and Q&A discussing hereditary antithrombin deficiency (hATd) and VTE risk. The upcoming webinar is Tuesday, October 31st at 3 PM EST.

This educational program will cover the role of antithrombin (AT) in anticoagulation, the impact of AT deficiency on thrombotic risk and heparin action, as well as VTE risk in both the surgical setting and pregnancy. Several patient cases studies will also be reviewed.

The webinar is led by hematologist, Michael Tarantino, MD.

His expertise lies in management of bleeding and clotting disorders, as well as non-malignant hematology disorders.
